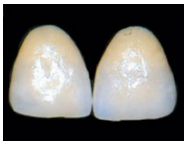
Veneers

Veneers



Teeth with porcelain sides, twisted incisors, those which have suffered an alteration in colour, which are separated or disfigured will once again look perfect.

The incisors are lightly polished before applying a very fine layer of porcelain by means of a special adhesive technique.

The covers are made to measure for the patient in the dental laboratory and are long-lasting.

Use of veneers

Deformed lateral incisor (conical tooth) before and after an application of porcelain veneer.
